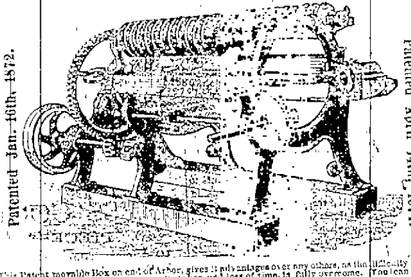
PARALLEL GANG EDGER,



Patented Jan. 16th, 1872. Patented April 14th, 1874.

This Patent movable Box on end of Arbor, gives it decided advantage over any others, as the Saws can be adjusted to any thickness, in a much shorter time than by any other process heretofore experienced, in removing Saws with Arbor, and loss of time, is fully overcome. The Saws are made to order, and are so constructed entirely of Iron and Steel.

The Gang Edger is another great improvement, as they regulate the feed to suit the kind of work required to be done.

These Edgers are used extensively for Sawing Deals and Scantling. We would caution purchasers against buying those machines which are an infringement on these.

All sizes of Edgers, with two or more saws, made to order.

PAST DAY

We commend to our readers the admirable Proclamation of Governor Connor delivered today for the observance which has become traditional with our people. The services to be holden at the various churches are announced elsewhere, and it is to be hoped that all good citizens will take occasion to recognize the obligations of the season in some fitting and profitable manner.

THE EUROPEAN WAR.

THE CAUSES WHICH HAVE LED TO IT

(From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.)

The causes of the trouble between Russia and Turkey are remote, and the many complications leading to existing difficulties cannot be easily understood without a close study of the political history of modern Europe. Primarily of a religious character, what is now generalized as the Eastern question gradually becomes political when looking for the evidence of some ambitious, the commercial supremacy of others, and the success or defeat of diplomatic policies.

The Christian Church was for many centuries united body, with power centering at Rome. When Constantine made Constantinople the capital of the Roman Empire the bishop of the new capital became the rival of the Roman Pontiff, and aspired to the supreme dominion over the Church. This rivalry soon sundered, and finally to separation between the East and the West—between the Greeks and Latins. Constantinople remained the political capital of the Roman Empire and head of the Eastern or Greek Church, while Rome was the head of the Latin or Roman Catholic Church.

The western portion of the empire was overrun by the modern Barbarians, and several Kingdoms were founded on the ruins. Charlemagne united these in one empire, of which France was the head, with the acquisition of Rome as the head of the Western Church. At this time the Eastern or Greek Empire had been in existence, with Constantinople as the head of the church and the seat of government. The West was isolated to the East, the church and national politics were shaped in the lines. The crusaders of the West went so far as to turn aside from their attempts to recover Jerusalem from the Turks to capture and pillage Constantinople, the capital of the Christians of the East.

This blow was a serious one, and from date the decline of the Eastern or Greek Empire. The empire and the church went down with the capture of Constantinople by the Turks in 1453. The Turkish policy was to trample out the religion of the East, as well as the political spirit, and centuries of cruel struggle ensued. The Christians of the northern section found a friend in young Russia. That nation adopted from the first, the Greek faith and worship, and became its champion. The struggling natives of the East turned naturally to her, and she more rapidly grew powerful. She inherited the quarrel with the Catholic powers of the West, and all her people hated the Turks. Her whole policy was relentlessly aggressive. Her aim was to repossess the countries of the Eastern Empire, and, above all, to recapture Constantinople. First only was to the Russian mind, and claiming that existing treaties had been violated, invaded Turkey. Great Britain and France formed an alliance with Turkey, and Russia was compelled to make peace on the terms.

While Russia made war in the name of persecuted Christians, England and France made war not so much in the interest of the Turks as in the interest of Western Europe. Russian influence, in the event of the disintegration of Turkey, was to form an independent nation of the Christian provinces of Turkey, and thus remove the cause of Russian irritation. Russian influence was lost in its own ground, and counteracted. The result of the defeat of Russia at Sevastopol was the treaty of Paris, in which the Eastern question was taken out of the hands and committed to the great powers of Europe. All troubles as to the Christians in Turkey were to be considered in council and no one nation was to act independently except under given circumstances. The Black Sea was opened to the fleets of all nations, but no war vessels of Russia or Turkey were to be allowed in its waters. Russia was to disarm, and the fortifications on the Black Sea coast were to be dismantled. The Christian provinces of Wallachia and Moldavia, lying between Austria and Turkey, were formed into the independent principality of Roumania, and placed under the guardianship of Europe. In 1870, when France was powerless and England embarrassed, Russia recoiled from certain provisions of the treaty of Paris and placed a war fleet on the Black Sea. Step by step the work of putting her army on a war footing, and, under various pretexts, made ready for the coming struggle.

The Herzegovinian insurrection of two years ago was the rebellion of the Christians of that province against Turkish taxation and persecution. Servia was drawn into the conflict. And as Servia was a creation of the treaty of Paris (made semi-independent under the rule of native princes and placed under the protection of the European powers, although tributary to Turkey), all Europe became incidentally interested. European interference compelled a truce, and negotiations were continued looking to permanent peace. Russia secretly assisted Servia in the struggle against Turkey, and demanded that the great powers should interfere in behalf of the Christians of the northern provinces. Certain reforms were demanded, and received the approval of England, France, Germany and Austria. Turkey adopted a new constitution and announced her intention to carry out reforms herself. Russia held that this was a mere preliminary demand, and that certain plans should be followed. Turkey rejected all plans and denied the right of any power to interfere. Russia proposed the protocol, published some days since, suggesting a basis of peace. The great powers signed this, but Turkey rejected it, and, in rejecting it, denied the right of Europe to manage the Eastern question or to dictate any policy to the Turkish government. Russia, holding herself warranted in such action, proposes to enforce the demands for reform under her leadership. It moves for other powers free to act, by the terms of the agreement of protocol, as they deem best. While Turkey clings to the treaty of Paris, the other powers hold that she has practically ignored it.

Montenegro has been for two centuries a bone of contention. The Turks claimed it as a part of the Ottoman Empire, but the Montenegrins resisted every attempt to subdue them, and, as early as the beginning of the eighteenth century, asked the aid of Russia. For many years Montenegro has been a semi-independent state under the protection of Russia. And whenever there has been a rebellion or insurrection in the Christian provinces of Turkey, Montenegro, with its Without the encouragement of Russia, has plunged into the conflict. She was fighting in 1861, and the Turks of Servia in 1862. In 1875 Turkey had to be notified that while the Servians were defeated the Montenegrins were not. The question of peace with Montenegro is now one of the elements contributing to present complications.

As to the present attitude of the nations little can be said with certainty. The assertion that Christians suffer to be cruel and virtually enslave the Christians is conjured. It means neither toleration nor consideration. The interference of Russia and other nations has so far secured a modification of this policy, and now Turkey expresses a willingness to carry out all needed reforms. Her position is that she will do herself all that is needed, but will not allow either Russia or Europe to supersede her.

Austria, lying to the north of Turkey, must shape her policy to meet her outlying Hungary and the part of Poland in her dominions. The Poles and Hungarians are anti-Russian in feeling and bitterly so. There is no doubt but that a treaty between Russia, Austria and Germany, but whether this will any bearing on the Eastern question is not known. While Austria is interested in maintaining friendly attitude toward Russia, for interests as they appear on the surface will not permit her to join with Russia in a war against Turkey.

Germany occupies a independent position, and is interested in maintaining her supremacy in Europe. Her attitude is friendly to Russia. France has declared that she was greatly injured by England's interference in keeping Russia as she is or in crippling her power, and it is believed he will throw her influence against the action which would be to her disadvantage.

On the one hand is seen to form the Christian provinces of Turkey, north of the Balkan mountains, into an independent nation. But, as the numbers of these Christians are to the Russian Catholics as one to one, the independent nation would be in sympathy with Russia, and Austria would not tolerate such a nation on her southern borders.

The Anglo-French Alliance of 1854 was too strong to allow interference on the part of other nations. If there is not a special alliance between Russia, Germany and Austria, it is too strong for the other powers of Europe. If these three nations agree on a settlement of the Eastern question, it will be a fait accompli, and the other powers will have to accept their programme. If there is such an understanding, it will be some apparent until Russia has invaded Turkey, and Great Britain is compelled to show her hand.

As it is almost impossible for a nation engaged in war to confine itself to a single plan, innumerable pretexts for interference present themselves. Hence, although Russia and Turkey are the only contestants for a time, there is possibly of a general war. As it is the Russian people, who are the government, who demand war, so it is the Turks, rather than the Sultan, who defy Russia. On the one hand, Russian wages war in behalf of persecuted people, and on the other of Turkish struggles for national existence.

We desire to be completely correct in all our statements, and to avoid doing the slightest injustice in our criticisms, hence we state that since the publication of our paragraph charging the Boston Journal with publishing Marshal Lamson's letter, away in a supplement sheet on Saturday, we find that it had prepaid printed the letter on the seventh page of its Friday evening edition. As we receive only the morning edition we saw the letter only in Saturday's supplement, and in view of the importance of the letter as a refutation of an editorial attack upon Mr. Blaine, its publication elsewhere than on the editorial page and without a word of editorial notice, deserved the attention of our readers.

Could there be a more complete confession of the wickedness and purpose of the "Stalwart party," of the design to bring the commission to Lamson, and to retain the White House usurpation and "secret of Packard at all hazards?" There is no doubt but these "read-lines" of the N. Y. Times.

Mr. Hayes's Policy.

ITS SUCCESS IN LOUISIANA

GOV. PACKARD'S LEGISLATURE LEAVES HIM—NOTHING LEFT NOW EXCEPT FOR THEM TO WITHDRAW GRACEFULLY.

The Supreme Court of New Hampshire, to whose was referred precisely the same question which arose in that State two years ago concerning the power of the Governor and Council to throw out votes on the ground of ineligibility or misspelling of names, have just unanimously decided that they have no such power, thus judicially branding the usurpation of Gov. Weston in 1875 and repudiating the whitewash attempted by Weston's judges.

A Chicago hotel keeper says it is all very well to demand that rope ladders be placed in the upper rooms to facilitate escape in case of fire, but what he wants to know is who is to stand constantly outside to intercept the transient guests thus provided at all times with a ready means of slipping away without paying their bills.

In 1860 Alabama gave nearly 18,000 Republican majority and in 1872 gave Grant almost 11,000 majority. Under the "shotgun policy" the Republican voting has been suppressed, and a recent dispatch announces that the daily State Journal, the only Republican paper in the State, has suspended.

When the Bangor Democrat takes to quoting the Boston Advertiser and the Malden Union prints the editorials of the N. Y. Tribune there is pretty good indication that work is being done that bodes no good to the Republican party.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL

Speaking for the ex-rebels, the Nashville (Tenn.) American, says: "Bother your forgiveness. Keep it. We want no forgiveness. The trouble is that the Southern people are not it the business of being forgiven."

A Boston man squandered the property intrusted to his hands, and a Massachusetts paper of extravagant pretensions alluded to him as "the unfortunate lawyer."—Ex.

The Lynchburg (Virginia) says that Mr. Hayes has done for South Carolina and Louisiana. All that was expected of Mr. Tilden, although not as quickly, as the Democratic candidate would have done it, for reasons that may easily be understood.

The Petersburg (Va.) Index is not afraid of any change of policy now, it says. "The South is safe, whatever Mr. Hayes changes his mind or not. The right of local government having been asserted, the people of the South will take good care to retain control of their State affairs, whether the Administration be favorable or otherwise towards them."

The following despatch speaks for itself and to the point:

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.

Wayne McVeagh, Esq., New Orleans, La.

The Commission deserves great credit for its success in unfolding enough of Packard's men to give Nicholls a majority. Had Tweed been on your commission he would have accomplished it a day. But we must have reform."

LOUISIANA.

The Retirement of Gov. Packard.

NICHOLLS GOES TO THE STATE HOUSE.

Gov. Packard will Withdraw from the Contest for the Present.

NEW ORLEANS, April 24—Midnight.—Packard has not replied to that address of the Republican caucus, but will do so tomorrow and announce his withdrawal from the contest for the present

The rations on hand in the State House have been divided among the most needy of Packard's men.

Packard will leave the State House for good early in the morning. By tomorrow night the troops will have withdrawn, leaving probably one policeman in charge of the building. There will be no formal surrender.

It is reported to-night that the clerks of the House and Senate have notified the clerks of the Nicholls Legislature that they will to-morrow turn over to them the records etc.

Governor Packard leaves the State House and Nicholls men Take Possession.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25. By five A. M. Packard and all his adherents except one "metropolitan" left the State House, and Col. Boylan chief of police directed a squad of his men to take possession of the building. Packard's militia left behind them about 200 stands of arms belonging to the State. Nicholls yesterday received many telegrams from points in Louisiana, Alabama, Missouri and Texas, offering congratulations on the withdrawal of troops.

Governor Packard's Proclamation.

NEW YORK, April 25. The proclamation of Packard issued to-day says on this the 25th anniversary of the surrender of New Orleans to the United States forces, it becomes his duty to announce to the citizens of Louisiana, that the countenance of the national government has been withdrawn from them, and a republican government established.

The history of affairs in the State is reviewed at some length and then Packard concludes "I waive none of my legal rights but yield only to superior force. I am wholly discouraged by the fact that one by one the Republican State governments of the South have been forced to succumb to force, fraud or policy. Louisiana, the first State rehabilitated after the war, is the last State whose government that falls, and I believe it will be among the first to raise itself again to a place of equal and honest representation. I advise you to maintain your party organization and continue to battle for the rights of citizenship and free government.

We strive for these and not for man, or men. It grieves me beyond expression that the Herculean efforts you made and the cruel sufferings you have undergone to maintain Republican principles in Louisiana have had this bitter end. To those who so gallantly stood by me in the long contest we passed through, I tender my heartfelt thanks. To all I counsel peace, patience, fortitude and a firm trust that eventually right and justice will prevail."

Packard's Parting with His Police.

before he left the building last night, it said to have been quite an affecting affair. There were 150 of them and every man wanted to shake hands and escort him home. Packard made them a speech, telling them that if they could get any of the appropriation made for them by the Nicholls Legislature, to take it; their legal claims for pay for their services would still remain, as they had never been discharged from the force. Several of the most effective members of the force waited on Packard at his house to-day and told him they had been offered positions in the re-organized force and they would take his advice whether to accept or not. He recommended them to accept. The members of the Legislature in a body at 2 P. M., passed down St. Charles street on their way to the State House, headed by Gov. Nicholls.

No hope of Peace

The Russians have crossed the frontier of Asiatic Turkey at Alexandropole on the Teheran. No hope is entertained in Constantinople that mediation of the powers will be successful.

Now the Porte Wants What It Can't Have.

VIENNA, April 25. The Political Correspondence special from Constantinople states that the Porte's request for a mediation of the Powers hasn't been completely unsuccessful.

Army Movements

A despatch from Bucharest, dated Wednesday, says yesterday 15,000 Russians occupied the railway bridge at Rabboschi.

Up to yesterday evening 50,000 Russians had entered Roumanian territory. The Turks up to that time remained perfectly passive on the banks of the Danube.

Fleeing to the Interior

The Roumanian army has retired from the Danube into the interior where it divided into two bodies, one at Bucharest, and the other at Krajova. The inhabitants of both banks of the Danube are fleeing en masse into the interior.

THE WAR IN TURKEY.

Movement of Troops.

THE PORTE WANTS MEDIATION.

BUT IT IS NOW TOO LATE.

London Press on the Manifesto.

The Khedive Between two Fires.

LONDON, April 25. Rain and muddy roads are reported in Roumania. It is stated that the Khedive has been called on for troops to serve the Sultan and Russia will make reprisals on Egypt if the Khedive furnishes them. Furloughs in the Austrian army have ceased. Fifty thousand Russians are said to be marching from Tartar Bazar in the direction of Galatz, as well as the 50,000 crossing the river at Kentfalchia, Lowa and Ungheni.

After Points Strategetical.

Turkish forces are being hurried forth to take all strategetical points in Roumania.

Skirmishing.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 25. Skirmishing is reported between the Russian and Turkish outposts on the Asiatic frontier near Kars.

The London Press on the Czar's Manifesto

LONDON, April 25. The London press unanimously condemn the Russian Manifesto.

The News says the solitary action of Russia will almost necessarily be action primarily for Russian interests. The best hope of the Turkish Christians is the poor one of transference from Turkish to Russian despotism. The omission of assurances against annexation from the Manifesto is a grave error. The Czar's Manifesto and Prince Gortschakoff's Circular are disappointing in their reticence and betray hastiness of action, which invites severe condemnation. Several French and English papers comment on the omission of any assurances against annexation.

The Standard considers the omission a most striking and ominous circumstance, which will cause and justify the darkest forebodings.

The Post says: The conduct of a despotic and overbearing Empire will be resented by every people. For ourselves we safely affirm that we shall not look on patiently while the Cossacks trample down the Turkish Constitution and bar our own road to the East.

Safvet Pasha in reply to the Manifesto.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 25. Safvet Pasha in reply to the manifesto of the Czar has sent a long circular despatch to the great powers. It protests against the declaration of war, pointing out the efforts of Turkey to improve the position of Christians, and satisfy the demands of the Powers. In the absence therefore of any provocation on the part of Turkey, Safvet Pasha declares the Porte is at loss to understand Russia's attack, and consequently appeals to the treaty of Paris and the mediation of the guaranteeing Powers.

GERMANY.

Moltke warns Bismarck about the French Army.

BERLIN, April 25. Moltke in his speech in Parliament called attention to the fact that France is appropriating annually 180,000,000 francs more than Germany on her military budget, and queried whether there was not a definite purpose shown in this in which Germany was interested. The French army is being reorganized with great zeal.

Effect of the Speech.

NEW YORK, April 25. A London despatch says the Bourse is more effected by the speech of Moltke in the German Parliament than by the war.

Opinion of the French Press.

PARIS, April 25. A majority of the Paris papers express the opinion that Von Moltke's declaration yesterday was not intended to be hostile to France.

Other Opinions of the Speech.

LONDON, April 25. A telegram from Berlin says Moltke's speech attracts as much attention there as the Russian manifesto. It is generally believed that Moltke is to tell the French Government that Germany is watching their armaments.

A Vienna despatch says it is reported that the contracts made by the Russians in Roumania do not indicate any intention on the part of Russia to send her whole army immediately to the Danube.

Turkish papers state that Suleiman Pasha has passed through the Dolger defile after repulsing the Montenegrins and is now marching to Niesse.

PERSIA.

The Plague

TEHERAN, April 25. The plague has appeared at Reshin and is causing three or four deaths daily. The mortality is likely to increase. Sanitary measures are being taken by the Persian government—There were 176 deaths at Bagdat from the plague between the 16th and 23d

MEXICO

A mixed state of affairs—The Outrage on the American Consul

CITY OF MEXICO, April 16. The political arrests continue. Senor F. Mejia formerly secretary of the Treasury under President Lerdo, has been imprisoned for alleged malpractice. Governor Jiménez who arrested Setler, the American Consul at Acapulco, without cause and kept him in confinement three weeks, released him by order of President Diaz, but without redress. President Diaz has declared the House of Deputies illegal as Congress. The Senate is called to meet in September, which both bodies will form a Constitutional Congress.

LOCAL MATTERS.

STATE OF MAINE.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

A PROCLAMATION

By the advice of the Executive Council I do hereby appoint

Thursday, the 30th day of April,

as a day of Public Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer, and I recommend to the people of this State the observance of it in a manner befitting the desolation it bears, and in the spirit with which the custom that ordains it was instituted.

The season when nature begins her new year, and gives visible promise of re-clothing the earth with the beauty of her verdure, and preparing the fruits and harvests of her constant bounty, is most suggestive of the renewal of hope, aspiration, and endeavor in the minds and hearts of men.

Let us obey the impulse of the opening year, and, bowing in humility before Him who rules alike the forces of Nature, and our human ways, form in all conduct every good purpose for the conduct of our lives, and crave God's blessing upon us, our State and Country.

Given at the Council Chamber, in Augusta, this tenth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the one hundredth and first.

SELDEN CONNOR.

By the Governor:

S. J. CHADBOURNE, Secretary of State

FRANKFORT. A correspondent writes that two ice houses, containing two thousand tons of ice belonging to Rowe Emery of Frankfort, were consumed by fire Tuesday night. Loss about $2,500. (Small insurance.

A lady residing in Eddington was run away with in a carriage by Brewer yesterday afternoon, being thrown from her carriage and dragged a considerable distance, breaking her collar bone and otherwise injuring her. We could not learn her name.

REV. HENRY MORGAN'S lecture last evening in Music Hall upon "Old Maids and their accusers and Fast Young Men," was very interesting, being replete with humor, and good advice and those who were present felt well repaid for their attendance.

MAIL ROUTES. By reference to another column it will be seen that proposals for carrying the mail on the various routes in the State of Maine, from September 1st, 1877, to June 30th, 1881, will be received at the contract office of the Post Office Department until Saturday, June 9th.

The Bangor House has been undergoing quite extensive repairs. A large chimney has been built in the new part for the new boiler which is to be placed in the basement. The debris caused by the recent boiler explosion has been cleared away and the building thoroughly repaired.

SPRING OPENING. Yesterday one of the finest displays of millinery goods was made at Mrs. J. Harrington's "Ville de Paris" millinery, on Main street that has been seen in Bangor for a long time. The large window on the front was particularly attractive and elicited much praise from the many who had called to witness the exhibition.

FATAL ACCIDENT. Many of our readers will remember an item published not long since stating that Mr. Osborn R. Butters of Orrada Hill, son of Mr. Almon Butters, of this city, was thrown from a carriage breaking his leg in two places, besides sustaining other severe injuries, which it was thought might prove fatal. Yesterday a despatch was received by the young man's father stating that his son had died from the effects of his injuries.

PRESIDENT ALLEN of the State College is delivering a course of very interesting lectures to the Senior Class, on general principles of law, which will be of practical value to the students. The lectures are twelve in number and are the result of considerable study and investigation. The opening lecture dealt with the subject of titles to property in general, and the other follow will take up the most important principles of real estate law. The students are very much interested.

Mr. S. W Cushing of Bath, received a despatch last Saturday stating that the ship Oregon, Capt. John M. Cushing, had arrived in Queenstown. She sailed from San Francisco in company with several vessels, about the 8th of January, and has beaten the whole fleet. The Oregon is after the same model as the N. T. Hilton, built by the Hon. N. T. Hilton of Brooksport.

FOR HUNGARY. Quite a lively and interesting trial has been going on in Brewer, commencing Tuesday and closing yesterday before Otis Gilmore, Esq. The case was State vs. Orie A. Orcutt, Reuben Orcutt, John S. Orcutt and Stephen Dorty Rowell, the three former belonging in Eddington, the last named from Holden. The defendants were charged with breaking and entering the store of shop of Alfred Read of Eddington, and stealing clothes hoops and other articles. The defence and one indicted by J. D. Wilson, Esq. John Orcutt and Stephen Rowell were discharged. Orie A. Orcutt and Reuben Orcutt were held under $300 bonds each to appear for trial at the August term of the S. J. Court

MAGGIE MITCHELL.

"Mignon."

A Bangor audience, as the reporter has before remarked, is by no manner of means unappreciative, though its plaudits are rare, the people seeming always to leave the effect of the actor's finer conceptions, as it were, unmarred by noise of hands or feet, and sometimes the audience is considered cold, indifferent, unappreciative, by those on the stage, when in reality the very, and entire reverse is the fact. Last evening, however, the crowded house which greeted Maggie Mitchell, departed from the usual custom, in a measure, and applauded with a will, at the end of the third act, calling their favorite before the curtain, and several times throwing her fine bouquets.

The play, "Mignon," is taken from the opera of the same name, and with Maggie Mitchell in the title role, is pronounced by those who have seen both, superior to the latter. As Mignon, the gypsey, she has ample scope to display her very rare talents and her rendition of the role last evening was faultless. The gymnastic and transitions of the play are striking, and the more so because the only Maggie Mitchell makes them so. There is not perhaps as great depth in the character of Mignon as in Gretchen, or Little Barefoot, yet it is long the less pleasing, to an audience, in that the portrayal of childhood and higher type of womanhood, drawn out and purified by the severest trials of adversity, is so perfectly done by the little actress. She is certainly one of Bangor's greatest favorites and her beautiful rendition attest her appreciation of her audiences in our city.

She was well supported last evening, the company being far better than usually somewhere with stars. Mr. Harris has many friends here, and indeed one expects him when Maggie Mitchell appears, for it would be hard to find a better support for her style of acting. Among others of the company especially worthy of mention, are Miss Constance Mitchell, Mrs. Octavia Allen, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Anderson, Mr. Seguin, Mr Gilbert, Mr. Villers, and Mr Thompson.

This evening "Rocky Mountain" will be given and a crowded house will undoubtedly be present, as it may be a long time before we have an opportunity to see Maggie Mitchell in Bangor again.

DR. SCHENCK'S STANDARD REMEDIES.

The standard remedies for all diseases of the lungs are SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, and SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, and if taken before the lungs are destroyed, a cure is effected.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the Lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the pulmonic matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the Pulmonic Syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, the basis of which it is composed, mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition, so that the food and the Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood, then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well. Take these pills to prevent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, either personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of SIXTH and ARCH Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday.

Schenck's Medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country.

PERISTALTIC LOZENGES

are mild, laxative and tonic, and thus act in various ways. When Dr. Harrison invented the Peristaltic Lozenges, he hit the nail square on the head, as they are pleasant to the palate, easy in operation, cause no pain, never require a change of diet, effect a thorough digestion of your food, do not weaken the bowels, give no depression from business, and are the only approved remedy for constipation, proved by the medical profession.

WARRANTED IN EVERY KIND OF

and Failing of the Rectum, as they reach the cause. All outward applications are only time and money wasted. Also, we promise a cure for every kind of such as "Oppression after Eating, Sour Stomach Spitting of Food, Palpitation, and Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back or Loins, Yellowness of the Skin or Eyes, Sick Headache, Coated Tongue, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Poor Appetite, Debility, Feverishness, Neuralgic Pains, and all Female Complaints. As a Mild but Worm Medicine our pill is unequalled.

From the Governor of Massachusetts, formerly Mayor of Boston.

Boston, Dec. 1, 1876.

I have known Dr. Harrison for many years as a practical chemist. His statements are worthy of entire confidence. I have heard frequent and favorable mention made of his medical preparations, and have examined testimonials respecting them from prominent medical authorities of this city, who employ them in their practice. I have frequently used the Peristaltic Lozenges, and think them a most agreeable and valuable medicine.

Damaged HANDKERCHIEFS.

SOME OF OUR LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS used in the United States are manufactured in Belfast, Ireland. The manufacturers are very particular that the best goods shall be sent for sale. We put up in the shape and in the manner adopted by the retailers, namely, selling each piece for the price of over a dollar apiece. All these are in the best impression, and are sold only retail, for the purpose of giving more than a parallel. On them, are thrown ashes to be as good as new. Most of these goods are sold to retail at a dollar. Ireland has recently sent us a few cases of these goods. We have just bought some of these goods, including regular

April 25, 1877.

CINDERELLA

Fifty very many adventurous spirits went out to Australia during the prevalence of the gold-fever some twenty or more years ago, and went out to die, will never be relieved.

Among others who went out was one Philip Gay, a sanguine, hopeful young man, who thought that while it might take the best part of a life-time to make a fortune at civil engineering, he should pick up one in a year or two at the gold diggings. How full of hope he was when he sailed with some four or five of his acquaintances remember yet. He left his wife at home with her young baby; his wife who was as full of hopeful visions as he was.

That party Philip Gay was the first-fruits of the new gold-fever with the news, brought in a sort of half dead, half alive existence a year or two, and followed him to the grave. Then had that lit at once so much nearer than that one of the gold mines, and so much farther off. The baby girl alone was left, the little Lucenda.

The child was not utterly destitute. A few hundred pounds remained to her and only relative. This was Mrs. Munro, whose late husband, for she was a young widow also, had been Mrs. Gay's brother. Mrs. Munro was not particularly well off herself, at any rate, her income was not large, and she had to be careful. Of course, being a prudent and calculating lady, Mrs. Munro could not be expected to burden herself with the little orphan Lucinda, and take her home to her own two daughters, she said to herself, and her friends agreed with her. So the little child was sent to a plain school to be brought up in a plain manner, to defray the cost of which the hundred pounds had to be trenched upon.

"The money must be made to go as far as it will," said Mrs. Munro, "and then we shall see."

Lucinda was seventeen when the last pound came to an end, and she was sent home to Mrs. Munro.

"And what on earth's to be done with her, I can't tell," observed Mrs. Munro to her daughters, Elizabeth and Laura. "We must keep her here for a little while, just to see what she's made of and what she's fit for and then get her a situation of some kind."

"You can make her useful while she stays here," observed Elizabeth, who was three-and-twenty years of age, and very practical.

A particularly welcome suggestion as far as Mrs. Munro. She was to better off than some of her neighbors in the matter of domestics. She professed to keep but a cook and a house-maid; but whether she was a bad manager and mistress, or whether she had the ill-luck to get a succession of bad servants, certain it was that her domestic department was generally in a state of ferment. The cook and servants were changed continually, sometimes there would be two, sometimes one, sometimes none, and the result was much discomfort and discomfort. The two young ladies had personally educated, but being to the life-ends with accomplishments could not be expected to look after dinners and puddings, pies and dishes; and Mrs. Munro was often at her wit's ends, and could not imagine what the world was coming to.

Lucinda Gay arrived at Milthrop Lodge—Mrs. Munro's pretty country home was named—it stood very close to the little town of Milthrop, ten minutes walk from it. A gentle, timid, graceful girl of seventeen, with fair, delicate, pliable face, bright hair, and wonderful look in the large gray eyes.

"My dear, dear!" the very eyes of your poor father, my dear!" sighed Mrs. Munro, who in the main was not by any means hard-hearted, and would not have been short-tempered but for her domestic trials. "You are more and more like him, child. Kiss your cousin, girls."

Elizabeth and Laura did as they were bid and kissed Lucinda. They were both good looking, showy young women.

"Well, not to make a short story long, Lucinda Gay's home at Milthrop Lodge grew to be permanency. Little by little she grew upon her. From having at first been required to help only in light duties, she found herself at last to all intents and purposes a servant; kept from morning till night at hard work. The was the effect of necessity, more than the actual wish or intention on Mrs Munro's part. The servants got worse and worse, each succeeding one that came in turned out to be more undesirable than her predecessor; and who will then but Lucinda to fall back upon? By the time she had been there a few months, she seemed to have settled down to this hopeless life of skivvying in the kitchen and waiting upon others. Elizabeth and Laura playfully called her Cinderella, which in a very good humor with her. Cinderella, and more only, the girl remonstrated with Mrs. Munro. "I don't like the name," she said, "I never expected to do such things. Don't you think you could let me go out somewhere? What to do? asked Mrs Munro. "As a servant?"

"Oh no," blushing painfully—"not as a servant?

"But you could not be a governess, you have no accomplishments."

"Fancy sometimes that I could make money by my drawings, aunt." No one in school could draw as I did."

"Draw! school!" repeated Mrs. Munro. "You did not learn drawing at school. You did not learn any superfluous thing; or that kind that had to be paid for."

"Yes, I did. It happened in this way. I used to copy the girl's drawings at school, it was all my pastime; and day the master saw some that I had done, and he asked to spend to me. Then he told Mrs. Chestnut I must be decided a prodigy for the art he would like to give me lessons for nothing, that I might do him credit. After that, I always went in with the rest. Do you know what he said when I left, aunt?"

"What did he say?"

"That I might rise to have a name in the world of art if I practiced diligently."

"And how in the world would you live while you practiced it, Cindy?" demanded Mrs. Munro.

Cindy looked distressed.

"My dear, don't you be ungrateful. Remember your poor father. He took up flighty notions and schemes—and he paid for it with his life. For goodness' sake, don't you turn flighty, Cindy, and follow his example."

Tears gathered in Lucinda's eyes, and she said no more. Like all people who have a good and tender heart, ingratitude appeared to her to be one of the very worst of sins.

Up from that day she settled down to her lot, resigned, outwardly if not inwardly. All the spare moments she could snatch from her duties were spent in her own room, drawing in private. Elizabeth and Laura went out to fetes and dances and entertainments. Poor Lucinda was never asked to go with them, she had no toilette for it; and if at times a longing for a little change came over her spirit, a sense of neglect that somehow did not seem right, she shut herself in with her paper and pencils and forgot the slight.

And thus things went on for about a twelve-month from the time of the girl's first arrival at Milthrop. Day by day seemed to be separated more and more from her cousins; between her condition and theirs a greater and greater barrier grew. Lucinda would sometimes ask herself whether things were to go on thus for ever.

It had been a long, hot, July day. The sun had gone down in a blaze of glory; a soft purple haze lay low in the valleys. All the doors and windows of Milthrop Lodge were thrown open to catch the grateful look of the evening. In the large old-fashioned porch that Elizabeth with a book; Laura lay back on the sofa indoors, fanning herself languidly.

Cindy, in the kitchen, had just finished washing up and putting away the tea things. Of late she had enjoyed the services of a particularly incapable helpmate, who impeded work, rather than did it; and all the labor fell on Cindy. For months now Mrs. Munro had not attempted to keep more than one servant; her place filled the place of the second.

"I regard Mr. Eddy in charge of a most capable and successful practitioner with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors can safely employ a person more trustworthy or upon equal terms of security for faithful and diligent service than Mr. Eddy."
EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy, Esq.—Dear sir: You procured for me, in 1862, my first patent. Since then you have attended to my business in Washington, and have obtained for me patents, reissues, extensions, and decisions. I have additionally employed Eddy & Lockwood in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, but will give you the credit of being the most faithful and diligent of all the agents I have employed in my business. I will give you a portion of my patents when I can, if I need more, and I do not hesitate to recommend you to my friends as a faithful and diligent agent."
Yours truly, C. GROVER BRADLEY.
Boston, April 1, 1877.

MARVELOUS EFFECT.

H. H. STEVENS,

Dear Sir:—I have used VEGETINE, as I feel it my duty to make all my friends aware of the great benefit I received from the use of the year 1867 was sick from general debility, caused by overwork, want of sleep and improper food. I was a very weak and nervous wreck, and could not walk a mile without stopping to rest. I tried everything I could hear of, but found no benefit from any of them, until I was persuaded to try Vegetine. Before I had finished the first bottle I was conscious that it was doing me good. I persevered, and in a few months was entirely restored to health. The effect has been permanent, and I feel as vigorous as I ever did.
Yours truly, ELIZABETH A. FOLLY,
3 Webster street, Charlestown, Mass.

SWOLLEN LIMBS.

LEBANON, N. H., June 27, 1877.

MR. STEVENS,

Dear Sir:—I write this note to inform you of the effect of your "Blood Purifier" upon my system. When I commenced taking it, my limbs were so swollen that I was unable to lie down for the purpose of sleeping, and was obliged to sit in a chair in order to breathe. It was impossible for me to get into my boots, or stockings, and very painful to get on my shoes and sandals. I took the medicine steadily, and before my bottle was gone, my strength, falling fast, I left off taking your medicine for a few weeks, I began to improve. My appetite improved so much that I felt like eating, performed my duties as a nurse with my wonted energy, and I attribute the cause to Vegetine.
Yours truly,
MRS. C. A. HUTCHINS.

A PERFECT CURE.

CHARLESTOWN, June 11, 1877.

MR. H. H. STEVENS,

Dear Sir:—This is to certify that Vegetine made a perfect cure of me when my other physician and I pronounced my case incurable, and I could not carry food on my stomach.
MRS. LUCRETIA, 63 Cook Street.

The above signed Mrs. Lucretia are personally known to me, and I vouch for the truth of the above.

VEGETINE

For Ten Times its Cost.

To the Agent: I have received from Boston a bottle of VEGETINE for Mrs. Lucretia, and I feel it my duty to make a few remarks in favor of your medicine. I tried it in vain for years for a cough, which I had, but I am perfectly cured by the use of Vegetine, and would not be without it for ten times its cost.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 75 State st., opposite Kilby, Boston,

Secures Patents in the United States, also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of any Patent furnished by enclosing one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington. No agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS:

"I regard Mr. Eddy in charge of a most capable and successful practitioner with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors can safely employ a person more trustworthy or upon equal terms of security for faithful and diligent service than Mr. Eddy."
EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy, Esq.—Dear sir: You procured for me, in 1862, my first patent. Since then you have attended to my business in Washington, and have obtained for me patents, reissues, extensions, and decisions. I have additionally employed Eddy & Lockwood in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, but will give you the credit of being the most faithful and diligent of all the agents I have employed in my business. I will give you a portion of my patents when I can, if I need more, and I do not hesitate to recommend you to my friends as a faithful and diligent agent."
Yours truly, C. GROVER BRADLEY.
Boston, April 1, 1877.

MARVELOUS EFFECT.

H. H. STEVENS,

Dear Sir:—I have used VEGETINE, as I feel it my duty to make all my friends aware of the great benefit I received from the use of the year 1867 was sick from general debility, caused by overwork, want of sleep and improper food. I was a very weak and nervous wreck, and could not walk a mile without stopping to rest. I tried everything I could hear of, but found no benefit from any of them, until I was persuaded to try Vegetine. Before I had finished the first bottle I was conscious that it was doing me good. I persevered, and in a few months was entirely restored to health. The effect has been permanent, and I feel as vigorous as I ever did.
Yours truly, ELIZABETH A. FOLLY,
3 Webster street, Charlestown, Mass.

SWOLLEN LIMBS.

LEBANON, N. H., June 27, 1877.

MR. STEVENS,

Dear Sir:—I write this note to inform you of the effect of your "Blood Purifier" upon my system. When I commenced taking it, my limbs were so swollen that I was unable to lie down for the purpose of sleeping, and was obliged to sit in a chair in order to breathe. It was impossible for me to get into my boots, or stockings, and very painful to get on my shoes and sandals. I took the medicine steadily, and before my bottle was gone, my strength, falling fast, I left off taking your medicine for a few weeks. I began to improve. My appetite improved so much that I felt like eating, performed my duties as a nurse with my wonted energy, and I attribute the cause to Vegetine.
Yours truly,
MRS. C. A. HUTCHINS.

A PERFECT CURE.

CHARLESTOWN, June 11, 1877.

MR. H. H. STEVENS,

Dear Sir:—This is to certify that Vegetine made a perfect cure of me when my other physician and I pronounced my case incurable, and I could not carry food on my stomach.
MRS. LUCRETIA, 63 Cook Street.

The above signed Mrs. Lucretia are personally known to me, and I vouch for the truth of the above.
A. D. HAYNES.

Would not be Without

VEGETINE

For Ten Times its Cost.

To the Agent: I have received from Boston a bottle of VEGETINE for Mrs. Lucretia, and I feel it my duty to make a few remarks in favor of your medicine. I tried it in vain for years for a cough, which I had, but I am perfectly cured by the use of Vegetine, and would not be without it for ten times its cost.
